

SITE Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge Socorro, New Mexico

PROJECT Web cam monitor and kiosk

GRANT $25,000 plus $25,000 in local matching funds.

NOTEWORTHY Each autumn tens of thousands of Sandhill Cranes and Arctic geese and ducks make the refuge their winter home.

The visitor center will include a web cam people can use to view wildlife at select sites throughout the refuge. Oasis cam is positioned to show the watering hole at the visitor's center. Grebe cam is placed at the south end of the marsh loop. Marsh cam is situated for duck, crane and eagle viewing. Crane cam is located on the farm loop to view Sandhill Cranes. Mobile cam is used throughout to bring the hidden Bosque into view.

Pathways to Nature also donated birdfeeders to the refuge and established a binocular-lending program.

To learn more about Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge, access <http://southwest.fws.gov/refuges/newmex/bosque.html>.

